Top 4 things Guidance/Social Workers learned and will pursue-

1. Keep strategizing about how BHS students can best access counselors and how counselors can build accessibility to students
2. Continue to stress counselor/social worker role of listening, building trust with all students, including issues of race and equity (many students acknowledged that BHS support people are really good at this already!)
3. Work on how to allow students to share issues of concern about a teacher's handling (or not handling) of incidents of racial slurs (other?) in the classroom. Students either see themselves or hear from peers about issues that happen but sometimes worry about how best to communicate this to the teacher.
4. Be sure guidance counselors who are registering new students of color to BHS also start conversation re: possible African American Latino Scholars Program participation at entry
